DUE TO EXTRAORDINARY TICKET DEMAND FOR THE DAZZLING NEW PLAY
EQUIVOCATION, MARIN THEATRE COMPANY EXTENDS THE BAY AREA PREMIERE BEFORE PREVIEWS BEGIN

By Bill Cain | Directed by Jasson Minadakis

EXTENDED! March 25 through April 25, 2010 | Opening Night March 30

e•quiv•o•ca•tion [i-kwi-və-kā-shən]: the use of equivocal or ambiguous expressions esp. in order to mislead or confuse.

MILL VALLEY, CA—Marin Theatre Company is delighted to announce that due to extraordinary ticket demand we are extending Equivocation an extra week through April 25. Tickets sales for the hit play by Bill Cain have already topped MTC box office records.

The high-stakes political thriller Equivocation by Bill Cain will now run March 25 through April 25, 2010. This Bay Area premiere follows the smash hit world premiere at Oregon Shakespeare Festival and productions in Seattle, Los Angeles, and New York. Variety calls Equivocation “one of the most intelligent, sizzling theatrical American plays in a decade.”

Equivocation goes behind the scenes at the legendary Globe Theatre as King James commissions William Shakespeare to write a play about a thwarted attempt on his life—the infamous Gunpowder Plot. Shakespeare and his company play a high-stakes political game as they struggle to stage the truth, stay true to their convictions, and keep their heads. Discover the story about the creation of Macbeth and King Lear in the play hailed as one of the most intelligent American plays in a decade.

Majestic in scope, playwright Bill Cain calls Equivocation “the story of how to tell the truth in difficult times, based on real events and real people of almost 400 years ago living in times very similar to our own.” Equivocation received an Edgerton Foundation 2008 New American Play Award for its world premiere at Oregon Shakespeare Festival.

“MTC is delighted produce the Bay Area premiere of this amazing and insightful new play in the prestigious company of such theaters as Oregon Shakespeare, Seattle Rep, Geffen Playhouse, and the Manhattan Theatre Club,” says MTC Artistic Director Jasson Minadakis. “We are pleased to welcome stellar Bay Area stage veterans to our powerhouse cast—Anna Bullard, Andy Murray, Andrew Hurteau, Lance Gardner, Craig Marker, and Charles Shaw Robinson as Shag (aka William Shakespeare). This wonderful ensemble will portray 38 roles over the course of the evening, with Mr. Gardner accounting for 12 roles including Lady Macbeth. We promise a remarkable evening of theater.”

Playwright Bill Cain is also Father Bill Cain, a Jesuit priest and teacher. MTC has awarded the 2010 Sky Cooper New American Play Prize for his new play 9 Circles which will receive its world premiere at MTC in late 2010. His widely produced play Stand-Up Tragedy earned six LA Critics Awards in its premiere at the Mark Taper Forum, four Helen Hayes Awards at Arena Stage in Washington, DC, and the Joe A. Callaway Playwriting Award for its 1990 Broadway engagement. He has won many awards for his film and television work. Cain is the founder of the Boston Shakespeare Company, where he was Artistic Director for seven seasons.

MTC Artistic Director Jasson Minadakis directed the world premiere of Sharr White’s Sunlight in addition to directing Equivocation this season. He directed Frankie and Johnny in the Clair de Lune, The Seafarer, and Lydia last season at MTC, as well as Cat on a Hot Tin Roof at Georgia Shakespeare Festival.
